ROLLINS BOYS' CASE PROBED

Inquiry Follows Statement They Were Railroaded on Death Charges

Following a request from District Attorney O'Brien, Godfrey L. Cabot appeared today before the Suffolk County Grand Jury to be questioned about a statement he allegedly had made regarding the Hall-Poley murder cases.

Mr. Cabot was quoted in a Sunday newspaper as having said that George and Charles Rollins, co-boys of the murder of Edward R. Hall and Edward T. Poley, Atlantic & Pacific store managers, were innocent of the crime. He is further alleged to have said that "they were railroaded to prison because they couldn't raise $5,000 for an attorney's fee."

Mr. Cabot was quoted as having said that the attorney who sought the fee was formerly connected with the district attorney's office under Joseph C. Feltner.

The nature of Mr. Cabot's testimony before the Grand Jury is not known. He will appear before the jury tomorrow.

Marion J. Ryan, foreman of the Grand Jury, said:

"We are going to make it our business to find out all about this matter."

Mr. O'Brien said:

"Mr. Cabot, discuss the case beyond saying that while I'm at it I propose to prove the whole thing up."

It looks suspicious.

So declared the mother of Mrs. May Barton, twenty-three years old, East Boston girl who is in a critical condition in Lynn Hospital, following a mysterious tumble from a speeding automobile near the Lynn-Salem line.

The car was a closed limousine. It is with Mrs. Barton were Mrs. Charles Mory of No. 41 Falcon Street, East Boston; Paul Phinney of No. 131 Washington Street and Orla Danberg of Boston.

"It was a jolt," said Mrs. Mory, who is twenty-two years old and said she has been separated from her husband since October last. "We had a pint of liquor and drank it in the car. I didn't see May fall and I don't know how it happened."

Mrs. Barton, who, hospital authorities say, has a slim chance for recovery, is the wife of a young sea captain. She lives at No. 61 Brooks Street, East Boston.

LIVES WITH MOTHER.

Her husband recently sailed from Halifax.

"I don't know how May could have fallen out if it was a closed automobile," her mother added. "She was safely inside. That's the only reason I can't see how it happened. I thought it would be her head."

Mrs. Barton's mother is Mrs. Augusta Sullivan. They live together.

THE accident, occurred in Highland avenue, a few yards on the Lynn side of the Salem line.

It was brought to the attention of Lynn police when John R. Poirer of Boston stopped Pauline Chandler, who was driving the car, and told him a woman had fallen from a touring car and was badly hurt.

He had another woman in the car, "What did you do that for?" Poirer, Chandler commented.

Chief of Police Edward Callahan ordered Lynn Hospital and landed the party had just arrived.

Chandler called her to the hospital, where for four hours, while doctors waited, over Mrs. Barton, they subjected Phinney, Rosenberg and Miles to a rigid cross-examination.

FOURTH DEATH HUNDREDS TAKE IN INTO CRASH EXCURSION TO NANTASKET

Pittsfield, June 25.—The total of deaths as the result of the collision between an automobile and a passenger train at Great Barrington Sunday night reached four today, when Rita Bornolini, aged eight, of West Stockbridge, died from a fractured skull.

The three persons who died the night of the accident were Mrs. Andrew Bornolini, mother of Rita; Mrs. Antonio Bornolini and infant daughter Inez, all of West Stockbridge.

Mrs. Bornolini and Mrs. Bornolini were sisters. Five other persons who were injured are still in a hospital.

They had very important dates at the Atlantic seashore. Several hundred mothers finished the homework early today. Several hundred children eagerly awaited to go aboard the first two buses and aboard the first two boats that sailed today out of the most enjoyable outings they ever had.

They got an hour's sail down one of the most beautiful stretches of shore on the Atlantic seashore. Three thousand bottles of Florida milk were distributed. It didn't cost the mothers and children a cent to get bathing facilities. When the boats arrived at the beach the mothers were welcomed by the management of the Sagamore baths. Each basket carried with it free bathing privileges.

Some of the kids and their mothers went to Narragansett. They got free admission by presenting the Boston American tickets.

Do you want to take the trip on the Narragansett Steamship Company's boats? There'll be two more steamers leaving lower Wharf daily. There'll be.

GRAND JURY ASKS LAWS TO CURB GOUGING; ONE CAFE MAKES $450,000

Huge profits, in one case approximating $450,000 a year, are still being made by Boston lunchrooms, according to a report made to District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien by the Suffolk County Grand Jury today.

The report added that in the case of one chain lunchroom, operating on a comparatively small investment, one individual recently took $175,000 for himself as a year's profit.

In addition two of his associates got $15,000 each for salaries and dividends, and a bonus of $10,000 each.

The grand jurors declare that the law, as at present on force, is inadequate to meet the situation, and request the district attorney to seek legislative action next January.

In the report signed by Martin J. Ryan, foreman, and Lawrence C. Prior, clerk, the grand jurors summed up the results of an investigation which they have been making for several months, under the direction of District Attorney O'Brien and Assistant District Attorney Henry P. Fisk.

Admitting that no presentments had been made, the grand jurors stated that they believed the facts should be set before the public. In the hope that public opinion might force the public should know.

EXCESS PRICES CHARGED.

The report read:

"The Grand Jurors of Suffolk County have held a number of hearings during the several sittings relative to prices charged customers for food at lunch rooms in Boston."

"While no presentment is made against any person, firm or corporation, charging a violation of the law, there are found, however, certain pertinent facts which the jurors feel the public should know."

"First: Unwarranted prices are being charged at the present time in lunch rooms in Boston. Although there have been some decrease in prices and increase in the size of orders of some articles of food served in the lunch rooms during the progress of this inquiry."

"Second: The average drop in the wholesale price of raw food material. Turn Over."

QUIZ SHEEHAN IN BOSTON BANK SWINDLES

Police of Boston and Cambridge journeyed to Attitash today to question William T. Sheehan, under arrest there.

Sheehan is charged with victimizing banks in Boston and other New England cities, and institutions in New York State. He is held at Attitash on a charge of grand larceny for the police of Buffalo.

According to the police, Sheehan's practice was to visit a city, open a drawing account and then draw a check, having it certified. This made the check a negotiable instrument.

After the check was certified, it is charged, Sheehan would either raise the amount or write a new check and forge the certification stamp.

His operations along these lines is said to have netted him over $100,000.

William T. Kieran, an alleged accomplice of Sheehan's, was arrested in Buffalo three weeks ago.

BOILER ROOM SUSPENDED AFTER BEING FOUND DRUNK

TELEVISION BOILER ROOM SUSPENDED

Little children clamored about a stalled automobile. In it were three men stupidly drunk from moonshine. The automatic revolvers fully loaded lay on a vacant seat. The children fondled the guns, played with them and laughed at the bleary-eyed men.

Today Patrolman William Desha, Michael J. Boykewicz and John H. Keene, attached to the Morton street station, Dorchester, are under suspension.

All are married. Desha lives at No. 1234 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury; Boykewicz at Mattapan, and Keene at No. 3 Golden avenue, Dorchester.

Police officers refuse to make public charges against the men until Police Commissioner Wilson has been informed of the situation.

AUTO AND MOONSHINE.
The men were suspended by Captain James McDermott as a result of a stop at Fells Church on Saturday morning. Early in the day in which a borrowed automobile and moonshine figured.

Here is what is alleged to have occurred:

The three patrolmen were among the detail from Division 19 which handled the crowd at Franklin Park on Saturday morning. Early in the afternoon they went to Steady's garage at No. 612-14 Blue Hill avenue and borrowed a small automobile which kept there by a private citizen.

At 2 o'clock Patrolman Carl A. Amnell of the Adams street station, returning from lunch, was stopped by an excited pedestrian who requested him to hurry to Adams and Arden streets, where some "drunken men" had just taken out a car.

Amnell found two men sitting in a stalled machine, fully loaded with moonshine. Their fully loaded revolvers, Amnell said, were on an empty seat, a swarm of children flitting in and out of the machine, playing with the weapons.

BIG SURPRISE.
"I didn't think for a woman, they were police officers," said Amnell. "I was dumfounded to discover two policemen in uniform, bloated and rags in the back of the car."

Amnell took the men to the Adams street station. They were held in a private room until Captain McDermott called. He was told the owner of the car is alleged to have said he gave one of the policemen the key to the automobile. When the officer told him his wife was ill he must have been lying.

"I never dreamed he was planning my ride," he told Captain McDermott.

Commissioner Wilson probably will order a full inquiry into the matter by a trial board of capitalists. It was said at police headquarters that a "ransom" was heard about the Morton street station and desha's garage today.

"These men got a raw deal," said a sergeant.

A spokesman said: "These are three mighty fine fellows, and one of them is a very good officer. Our station has been notified by the police and we are very sorry to hear of this. I think he was off duty some time and offered him a drink to ease his pain and he took it."

BRANDS STEEL CONFISCATED

The stock of confiscated liquor in the Appraiser's Room at Atlantic and Northern avenues is not entirely depleted today, only because of the accidental arrival of a government watchman.

In one of the most audacious robberies ever executed in Boston, bonds and cash were taken from the Appraiser's Room at Atlantic and Northern avenues is not entirely depleted today, only because of the accidental arrival of a government watchman.

Thirty feet away from where the staff was loaded to a truck was a watchman's post.

He offered no interference to the men who loaded the whiskey on the truck early Sunday morning. It is admitted that as far as he was concerned the bandits might just as well have carried the entire building away.

The watchman's name is not made public.

An explanation as to why he failed to see the thieves and intercept the robbery has not been made.

CHECK UP ON LOOT.
A checkup today of liquor stores indicated that the value of the pilfered goods was less than $10,000.

It was admitted, however, that the thieves may have made several trips prior to the one in which they were frightened away by Watchman James Mullany.

Further checking of the stores will be made to ascertain the total amount of the loot.

It is stated that affairs at the stores have been somewhat disturbed by a large number of contractors' workers, who are making repairs and alterations to about 150 offices in the building.

Flapper Takes the Air Off Pemberton and Barely Misses Bumping Hotel Roof

But the Pilot's Too Handsome to Have an Accident, "Honest, Girls, He's a Peach."

By the FLAPPER.

Going up in an airplane is like having an operation. It's the preliminaries that are hard. Once you are under or into the ether you don't mind it.

I had a lot of faith in the aviator, Jimmie Corbett's been in the air 3,000 hours. That's 2,999 1/2 hours longer than my record, but give me time. Don't crowd me!

Besides, nothing could happen to so handsome a lad as Jimmie. Honest, flaps, he makes Wallie Reed look like a clothing store dummy.

The first time we started out from Pemberton Inn beach I had a feeling that I'd forgotten something. But the concrete mixer that Jimmie called his engine was kicking up such a lot of fireworks I couldn't make him hear me. Then Jimmie stopped the engine—we were still on the water—and said:

"Let's hop off without 'em. Whaddya you say?"

Then I remembered we'd forgotten the photographer and the other man. And they'd always wanted to go up in an airplane! How could we be so careless!

I was for going back to get 'em for the same reason that a condemned man gropes for words when they ask him if he has anything to say.

Not that I was afraid to go up in Jimmie's hydro-aeroplane, that's the winged eagle, that's a whole name. Di, no! Only I wasn't in a hurry. We had all day—as you might say. Although it would be no reason to hop off with Jimmie.

We went back and got the photographer, but the other man couldn't come along because the photographer weighed too much. As it was, Jimmie couldn't get the gold dard diver up in the air and we had to wait out of the harbor until the open sea. There we took the air.

What a Thrill
Wow, what a thrill! Combine your first ride on the giant elevator with the first ride in the Woolworth building and you've got fifty-two stories with you in it, and the dream you had about the stuff rising from the Custom House tower and you've got a little idea of what it's like.

You have, in the pit of your stomach, a sensation you have never felt since the morning you took your examination in the clover, the day you had to test in the dark, and the time your mother made you apologize to the old lady who tripped over your roller skates. You aren't afraid, at all, at all, but you aren't exactly at ease, either. You don't mind it a bit, but you won't mind it being over, just the same.

I looked cautiously over the side of the plane. Three little mosquitoes on the edge of a sack of land held breath as they went to three people in flying suits—probably very important people, too. I had the novel idea of waving to them, but when I put my hand out the photographer's face. He still insists that I waved him on purpose, and just when he was feeling so swell, either. I kept my hands and feet in the ship after that.

Felt Talkative
I felt very talkative, but it didn't mean anything. I couldn't've delivered the Gettysburg address and Jimmie would have had thought I was breathing with my mouth open. The photographer could've sworn I had a speech to make, and Jimmie would have known it. Jimmie's engine was going all like talkative.

I wondered why I hadn't had a thorough conversation with Jimmie before.

"Swallow," I said to him if he meant to do any tricks—enjoyed it highly."

THE FLAPPER FLAPPING
This, my dears, is flapping as is flapping. If you ask me what taking the moon in a winged disk. I'd say it was the best winged. Up, up a little bit higher, oh, oh, the moon is on fire—

QUESTION WIFE LOOT 3 STORES IN SHOOTING DURING BLAZE OF HUSBAND IN PROVIDENCE

New York, June 26.—Efforts to ascertain the true circumstances surrounding the shooting of Oscar A. Hirsch, former theatrical promoter and present head of an electrical concern, were made today at the arraignment of the victim's wife, Hazel, a pretty girl, before Judge Judge Johnson at Bristol.

Mrs. Hirsch, twenty-two years old, less than half the age of her husband, was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill after the wealthy electrical man was found in the rear of his home at Prospect, N. J., shot in the mouth with a 25-caliber revolver. Subsequently, however, when it was ascertained that her husband would live, she was released in $25,000 bail, which was provided by her friends. There was a fearful shouting of the couple at Hirsch's bedside in the Nassau Hotel.

There were no witnesses to the shooting and a number of conflicting versions have been reported. It was claimed that Hirsch, who heard the shot, rushed out and answered Hirsch to his porch. A few minutes later Mrs. Hirsch was found in the room with her husband.

It was said that first a man had been shot. According to the authorities, Hirsch had been over both eyes.

The motorcade was near the Hacienda de San Gabriel, when the bandits appeared, and stopped them at the point of entry. The women were released, but after robbing them, the bandits took Mr. Bielaski and Mr. Barona with them.

When the news reached this city, the American Chamber of Commerce, George T. Summell, communicated with the authorities in Cuernavaca, as well as getting in touch with the Federal government, and Secretary of War Sherman, who ordered the Federal troops in the vicinity to start after the bandits.

DISABLED "VETS" HONOR HEROES

By International News Service Staff
San Francisco, June 26.—The cost at which the World War was won was brought home to San Francisco as the last of the 10,000 delegates to the second annual convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War arrived for the opening session minus arms, legs here and there a slight limp. The veterans who were America's pride in a short time ago met to demand that justice be done those who paid with their bodies and health for victory.

Governor Stephens welcomed the veterans at the session of the convention today.

The "Living Hall of Fame," including the greatest hero of each State brought to San Francisco a modest bunch of young men. But the fact that their comrades acclaimed them and pinned to their breasts medals attesting their acts of valor, a quieter, less talkative company of veterans was to be found.

Colonel Charles R. Forbes, head of the United States Veterans Bureau, was here to tell of the rehabilitation work the government is doing and anxious to learn the activities of the government in behalf of its sacred charges. He said the government now has 150,000 men in school, and 31,000 in hospitals. So far 14,000 have been rehabilitated. The peak of hospital cases, he added, will be reached until 1925, when it is expected 42,000 cases will be under the care of the government.

Question Box for Radio Fans

Note—So many queries have been received concerning the new Armstrong superregenerative circuit, the hook-up and instructions of which appeared in Thursday and Saturday's American, that today's question box will be devoted to this feature.

J. M. A. Providence—After some experimentation Dr. Pickard, the prominent radio engineer, has discovered that it is unnecessary to tap off the secondary tuning coil for the lead to the high inductance coils of the oscillating tube. Make the connection at the grid end of the secondary. This applies also to the single tuning coil that you are using. The capacity of the phone cords is enough to make the use of a condenser between the phones unnecessary. If you want to add a push-button, make the connections in place of the phone, but in this case use a condenser.

W. H. S. Danvers—The coils L-1, L-2 and L-3 are respectively the two coupling inductors and the tickler coil. They are just the same as in the old plain regenerative set.

C. J. H. Boston—Only one storage battery is needed for lighting the filaments of the two tubes, although they were shown in the diagram for the sake of simplicity. The tubes, by the way, should not be lighted as brightly as the soft tubes.

L. M. R. Allenton—The switch is a single pole, double throw. It is not necessary, as the lead from the B battery may be connected permanently to either side of the phones.

C. A. Wellesley—There is only one B battery, as the lead from the B battery does not have a special B battery. From sixty to a hundred volts is recommended.

B. N. W. Boston—A loud speaker may be operated with the superregenerative circuit just as with any other.

A. J. H. Natick—The new circuit is no more difficult to tune than an ordinary regenerative set with one stage of amplification. The major adjustments are the two variable condensers and the tickler coil. The condenser across the secondary of the couple and the tickler coil should be at the same adjustment as when using an ordinary regenerative set. This leaves only the other condenser to adjust. The coupling between the two high inductance coils may be varied, although they are closely coupled anyway.

COUNTY FAIRS TO BE UPLIFTED

The State Department of Agriculture today decided to run the fair to the State, the wild man, Professor Ripley-Kearney, the lightning calculator, and beautiful Bricia, the amuseur.

Down with the midway. Up with the building thespians. The department made this announcement: "Director Smith is making special effort to secure local talent for the entertainment at the county fairs, hoping to cut out most of the midway performances and hired talent generally. It has been proved by numerous instances that there is more interest in better financial results, when the young people of the vicinity get up their own entertainments and take a pride in their own talent, than when hired outsiders are all the show."

LEONARD'S MIGHTY RIGHT TAKES MALONE'S PLACE AGAINST WALKER

FIGHTING BATTLE AT AERENA TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.
Leonard Bogash of Brighton, who punched his way to a sensational victory over Tommy Robinson at the Commonwealth Sporting Club of New York Saturday, will take the place of Jack Malone against Johnny Walker in the feature bout at the Arena A. C.'s big show at the Boston Athletic Association.

Following his win over Robinson, Bogash was offered $1500 to fight Tommy Loughlin, a new time sensation, at an open-air show at Philadelphia. The Arena A. C., however, made a financial offer to have him fight at the Philadelphia club. It also promised Bogash that the victor of tonight's match would be pitted against Johnny Wilson in a title bout here this summer.

The Massachusetts Boxing Commission will announce the fixing of the suspension of Wilson in a day or so, which will enable the Charleston man to show in Boston ring again.

The substitution of Bogash for Malone means the fight will be a more exciting one. Bogash is a more powerful fighter than was originally expected. A Malone-Walker bout would have been a case of a better trained fighter, which often gives rather unimpressive results. But Bogash, having won over Robinson, will be a more powerful fighter. He has been fighting two hard-fought, and won't give an inch of ground. It should develop into the most exciting and dramatic battle staged in a local ring in months.

Bogash weighed 132 pounds for Robinson. The latter scaled at 140 pounds. Bogash carried the fight and won every round. On several occasions he had the Boston man on the ropes in a groggy condition.

Walker is hailed as a Second Ketchel. The fact that Malone ran out of his match with Walker has added interest to tonight's bout. Boston and New England fans are eager to get a glimpse of the sensational Elizabeth, N. J., fighter who has been called on a second Ketchel.

Malone was physically able to fight, but he feared Walker's punch. He sent a telegram to Nate Lewis, one of his managers, in which he admitted that he was telling him Malone would win by a knockout.

Even when told he would be expected if he didn't go through with the match, Malone declared he wouldn't enter the ring with the New Jersey lion.

Walker has done some spectacular fighting in Boston ring. He is considered here by winning over Nate Lewis. He then knocked out George Griffith of Albion. Malone had stopped Paul Pineda of Albion. The most exciting thing about the match was the fact that Walker came back after having been whipped hard in the first round and landed the way to a decisive victory.

Bogash Will Stand Up and Fight With Robinson. Bogash will stand up and fight with Robinson tonight. The Brighton man is a powerful fighter and has conquered most of the best leading welterweights and middleweights. Paul Pineda, who has been called on a second Ketchel, has been called on a second Ketchel.

Malone was fighting Walker. The latter might win by a knockout as Jack doesn't go any cheering when he punches a winner. But with Bogash in the ring, there may be a chance in the event of a knockout.

BOSTON RETAIL LEAGUE A SUCCESS

The Boston Retail Merchants' League enjoyed the first week of summer sales.

With five teams including the Boston, the league is looking forward to a successful season.

The poor weather conditions handicapped the youngsters last week, but with all teams better to give battle this week, there may be a possible change in the standing at the week's close.

Young O'Callahan, who twice for the C. F. Harvey nine, is a good pitcher and is expected to come to a close will bear watching.

Jack Conway Tosses Coin; Then Picks Walker to Win

Jack Conway tossed the coin and picked Walker to win.

I tossed a coin and cried, "Heads I'll pick Walker, tails I'll pick Bogash," said Conway.

That's why I'm naming Mickey to win in tonight's big quarrel, which will furnish more heavy punching than Boston rings have seen in years.

Walker and Malone would have been chosen, but since Jack took it on the run, the problem has been made more difficult.

Bogash won't quit if he hits a solid clip, while he can also do considerable punching himself. Don't forget the fact that Mickey came back after having been whipped hard in the first round and landed the way to a decisive victory.

FINANCE
BUSINESS
By B. C. Forbes

One man whose doing are much discussed in Wall Street is Percy A. Rockefeller, son of John D. Rockefeller and nephew of John D. Rockefeller. He is by far the most successful of all the Rockefellers. Some declare that he promises to be a second John D. in point of wealth, that he is extraordinarily shrewd, extraordinarily ambitious and extraordinarily energetic.

When Rockefeller's hands and feet are in motion, he is in motion. He is not a man who sits still. He is a man who is always on the move. He is a man who is always on the move. He is a man who is always on the move.

One of the things which Washington is waiting the gratification of the American public, even though the public may not be aware of it, is the fact that the Rockefeller family is in a position to become the most powerful stock market power in the country.

Credit for this is due to the fact that the Rockefeller family is in a position to become the most powerful stock market power in the country. They are in a position to become the most powerful stock market power in the country.

Some of our California valleys are so tremendously rich in natural resources that they are beginning to come into their own. The American National Bank of San Francisco, for example, is in a position to become the most powerful stock market power in the country.

Another thing which is being done in California is the building of a new canal. This canal will be a great help to the people of California. It will be a great help to the people of California.

There is a new book out. It is a book about the future of the world. It is a book about the future of the world. It is a book about the future of the world.

SHOULD WOMAN, FORCED, TAKE MAIDEN NAME?

If you were to get a divorce from your husband, would you wish to resume your maiden name?
If so, would you make a secret of your first marriage in event that you were to be married again?

The Boston American would like to hear from its readers on these questions, which are inspired by the experience of Mrs. Margaret A. Hurley of this city. In suing for a divorce, Mrs. Hurley asked Judge Fessenden for permission to resume her maiden name.

But get this reply:
"Permission of the court to resume your maiden name is virtually a certificate that you are a cadaver. You have been married thirteen years, but you are still young and attractive. By granting you right to resume your maiden name you are even an opportunity for death. If you intend to marry again, you would be in a position to deceive the editor."

"However, if you promise to tell your editor, if you have one, all about it, I will grant your petition, although I do not like to do it."
Mrs. Hurley promised, and her petition was granted. She stated that her reason for asking permission to use her maiden name was the unpleasant notoriety which attached to her married name by virtue of the divorce suit.

We want the opinions of our readers on this interesting subject. Address your answers to the Maiden Name Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.
